These are cherry blossoms
 🌸 They are Japanese flowers. We often watch them in this season.
 I especially like cherry blossoms at night!!!

↑ Entrance ceremony 🌸 🌸

Picnic 🍷 ↓

These are secret snow drop letters (gækkebreve). You cut them out so it looks pretty and then write a little poem on it. You have to give it to someone in secret, and they will guess who they got it from.

Sweet wheat buns (hveder) we eat with a lot of butter.

Easter eggs, that we paint on.

Father's Day

In the third Sunday of June,
most children celebrate their fathers in Japan
Usually, they give white carnations.

In Denmark, in June, we have this big celebration, because the students graduate from school. They often have a big party with family and friends. In this party people get very drunk. It is around 20th June.

In Denmark, we have "Sankthans". We burn off a witch made out of tree on a big fire. It is 23rd June.
It is very old tradition, it is 1000 years old and 1000 years ago, the Vikings celebrated "Sankthans" and they burned real witches on a fire. It is to celebrate Midsummer.

Enjoy summer Vacation !!

I enjoyed swimming in the famous ocean with my friends during our last summer vacation.

Tanabata is the day when Orihime and Hikoboshi can meet in the Milky Way. It happens only once a year.

Greenland's National Day on July 21st celebrates the establishment of self-rule in 2009. It's marked with cultural events, traditional dances, flag hoisting ceremonies, and speeches, emphasizing Greenlandic identity and autonomy.

Autumn leaves in Japan are beautiful

In November here in Denmark, we have a holiday called "Mortensaften" on the 11th of November and on the 10th of November its "Mortensdag". On "Mortensaften" we eat duck, potatos, brown sauce, and something called "hveder". That is some kind of bread.

I had a Christmas party with my classmates last year.

When I went to Huis Ten Bosch in Nagasaki on a school trip, I saw a very beautiful illumination!

The teacher dressed up as Santa Claus and brought me a present

Coming of Age Day

It is a day set aside to honor young men and women who have reached the age 20.

On January 6th, we have a holy day which is celebrated in the church, and that has been done in Denmark since 1770. We celebrate the revelation of Jesus in Christianity.

The Last Day of Winter

Ehomaki Sushi Roll

In Denmark there is a Holiday named "Fastelavn". It is a festive holiday where children dress up and have a lot of fun.

The Statue of Johannes Knudsen

He was the chief engineer of the Ellen Maersk and died during a sea rescue operation for a burning Japanese boat off the coast of Cape Hinomisaki on Feb.10th, 1957.

Graduation Ceremony

It is a ceremony to celebrate graduation by certifying that the student has completed all the educational courses at the school and awarding a diploma.

Hinamatsuri is also known as “Girl’s Day” or “Doll Festival” in English. The festival is held to pray for the healthy growth, prosperity and happiness of girls, especially those that are 10 or younger.

A sign that spring is starting in Denmark.

At the scandinavian mardigras, where we do something called “slå katten af tønden” where people hit a barrel to get candy out of it.

Summertime starts. We set our clock one hour ahead, and take our outdoor furniture out.
